

Dear Women with Wings!

I have been envisioning a world wide community for women and girls of all ages, where creativity, compassion (giving back to charities and causes one believes in) and leadership skills are shared.

If we as a world are to survive, women must mentor each other and rise in status around the world.

Much has been written about the status of women and poverty, education, AIDs, world economics, and human rights - we will never replace the outstanding journalism of WorldPulse or Womensenews.org - however, we do intend to build a community leaders who share best practices, art, creativity, thoughts on girlhood, womanhood and what it means to carve your own niche out in today's world - it's not easy, it never has been - but as we "gather the women, we will save the world."

Sincerely,

Patricia, A Woman with Wings
